Course Outline/Topics to be Covered

The course provides the training required to certify an individual to Six Sigma Black Belt status. Six Sigma is a quality improvement process, driven and supported by top leaders in today's most successful organizations. This process improvement quality initiative uses a structured quantitative approach for driving improvement in an organization through the use of defined metrics in manufacturing, service, and financial processes within an organization. This focus on product, process, and transaction can be defined and understood at three distinct levels: metric, methodology, and philosophy. Class can be completed online at any time, and you will have 5 months to complete. Bryant University Green Belt Certificate program, or equivalent training and/or experience, is a prerequisite for the Black Belt Certificate program. Please refer to our website at edc.bryant.edu for more information.
