Course Outline/Topics to be Covered

The completion of this program will prepare the participant to work in a variety of settings including both retail and institutional pharmacy settings. Pharmacy technicians work under the direct supervision of a licensed pharmacist. They perform such tasks as filling prescriptions, packaging medication, inventory control and record keeping. The class is a preparatory class for the national exam and a good solid background for working in the field as a pharmacy technician. In Rhode Island you do not need to work the 500 hours to get a pharmacy technician license. We do, however, recommend that students work at least 6 months in the field prior to attempting the PCTB exam. There are many things covered in the classroom but technicians may encounter various situations in the field that cannot be covered in the class.
